

Welcome to EDA's Tribal Consultation

EDA is seeking input regarding the design and implementation of two new programs authorized as part of the CHIPS and Science Act of 2022: the Regional Technology and Innovation Hub Program (Tech Hubs) and the Distressed Area Recompete Pilot Program (Recompete Pilot Program) as well as input on Disaster Supplemental Funding. EDA intends to release Notice of Funding Opportunities (NOFOs) for all three in the Spring of 2023.

EDA also seeks specific consultation on an issue in the Recompete Pilot Program where the statutorily required dataset for Tribes does not exist and how to equitably account for Tribal populations in light of that constraint.

Helpful Hints

- EDA hopes to consult with Tribal Leaders or their direct proxies. Other Tribal organizations are welcome to view and listen to the presentations in a non-participatory role.
- If you would like to submit written questions or feedback for the panelists to address, please submit your question using the Q&A feature. You may submit anonymously if you so choose.
- If you would like to verbally present your question or feedback please use the Raise Hand function and you will be prompted when it is your turn to present.
- This session will be recorded

What Input Are We Seeking?

EDA published the RFI on Feb. 14. Responses to the Tech Hubs RFI are due by 5pm ET on Mar. 16.

All Program Aspects Including Design, Structure, and Evaluation

While the RFI poses specific questions, EDA welcomes all responses that stakeholders believe will support the development of a strong Tech Hubs program. Particular areas of interest include (but aren't limited to) how EDA might—structure a Tech Hubs program that will accelerate a region's evolution into a global leader in an industry of the future that strengthens the region and U.S. economic and national security select and define metrics for assessment of successful Tech Hubs

identify how federal designations and federal grants can be structured to maximize desired impacts of the Tech Hubs program

design a competitive, inclusive, and accessible selection process for Tech Hub designations that both support critical tech. and innovation sectors as well as geographic diversity

For all the details, see the statute at 15 U.S.C. § 3722a.

More information regarding the Tech Hubs RFI can be found on EDA's website.

What Is the Recompete Pilot Program?

- The Recompete Pilot Program is a new statutory authority that allows EDA to design and implement a new program:

PWEDA
42 U.S.C. § 3121 et seq.

Recompete Pilot
15 U.S.C. § 3722b

- Its purpose is to alleviate persistent economic distress and support long-term comprehensive economic development and job creation

Tribes and Tribal Lands Are Eligible

- ❑ Tribal governments are specifically identified as eligible recipients
- ❑ Tribal lands are specifically called out as eligible geographic areas, including:
 - Land located within the boundaries of an Indian reservation, pueblo, or rancheria; or
 - Land not located within the above boundaries but for which title is held—
 - In trust by the United States for the benefit of an Indian Tribe or an individual Indian;
 - By an Indian Tribe or an individual Indian, subject to restriction against alienation under U.S. law; or
 - By a dependent Indian community

Appropriation vs. Authorization

What we've been appropriated
(i.e., the funding EDA can deploy
for the Recompete Pilot Program as of now)

$200 million

The program's authorization level
(i.e., the current maximum funding over the full life of the program)

$1 billion

Calculating Maximum Grant Amounts

The Recompete statute states that grant amounts should be appropriate for the activities to be undertaken; it sets $20 million as a minimum over the full course of the program for implementation grants and establishes a formula for calculating maximum grant amounts (assuming program is fully funded, which it is not currently).

Prime-age employment gap x Tribal prime-age population x $70,585

Prime-Age Employment Gap

Difference, expressed as a percentage, between:

- National 5-year average prime-age employment rate AND
- 5-year average prime-age employment rate of the eligible area (i.e., Tribal lands)

Tribal Prime-Age Population

Sum of:

- Total number of individuals ages 25-54 living on Tribal land multiplied by 0.65; and
- Total number of individuals ages 25-54 included on the membership roll of the Tribal government multiplied by 0.35.

Open Question: How to Calculate Maximum Grant Amounts Without Access to the Underlying Data

Maximum Grant = Prime-age employment gap x Tribal prime-age population x $70,585

Statute Requires Data That Do Not Exist* to Determine Maximum Grants

- Number of Tribal members ages 25-54 living on Tribal land
- Number of Tribal members ages 25-54 on the membership roll
- Number of Tribal members ages 25-54 who are employed

“data provided by the applicable Tribal government to the Department of the Treasury under the Coronavirus State and Local Fiscal Recovery Fund programs under title VI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 801 et seq.).”*

Finding a Path Forward

What is the best approach to address this challenge (e.g., providing Tribes an opportunity to submit the missing data on a case-by-case basis to EDA, using another data source as a proxy)?

Particular areas of interest include (but aren't limited to) how EDA might—
- structure the program to ensure the impacts are shared broadly and equitably;
 - determine the scale and types of economic development interventions that are most likely to advance the economy in an area with a high prime-age employment gap;
 - identify best practices for building local public capacity that would prepare local labor markets and communities for Recompete implementation and other future funding; and
 - select and define metrics for assessment of successful Recompete communities.
